

The New Reliability Magazine is Coming Soon!

Starting in the first quarter of 2024 the Reliability Society will be adding a new publication to its portfolio. Reliability magazine will be a quarterly, all electronic publication featuring peer-reviewed articles and a diverse mix of editorial content including case studies, technical reviews, opinion pieces, book reviews, tutorials, tributes and more. Content will be rapidly published and indexed and archived in IEEE Xplore. Reliability magazine addresses a long unmet need for a Society publication with a more applied focus.

This magazine is a new member benefit – it is free to all Reliability Society Members! Members will also continue to receive Transactions on Reliability and the Reliability Society electronic newsletter free of charge if they remain members of the Society. The magazine is also available for purchase by non-members.

The Manuscript Central portal for Reliability will be open for submission of articles soon. For more information about writing an article for Reliability, or if your company is interested in advertising in the magazine, please contact Phil Laplante at plaplante@psu.edu.
